Where's the Instructor: Tales of Effective Online Leadership During a Crisis ❹ 9:30am - 10:20am, Feb 18

Administration Faculty Staff

What can be considered an effective online leadership style to help faculty be successful in the online environment during a crisis? In this session, we will explore not only leadership styles in the higher education environment but also "Where's the Instructor". There were many challenges that faculty encountered by moving to the online environment. We will dive into these challenges and how effective online leadership can help faculty thrive in this modality of education. It is important that these lessons are captured because you should never waste a good crisis!

Innovative Ways to Complete a Degree at College of Charleston @ 1:00pm - 1:50pm, Feb 18

Administration Faculty Staff

This session will introduce two innovative programs that serve transfer students and the non-traditional (adult) population

The Professional Studies program is a degree-completion program that equips students with the practical knowledge to prepare for success in today's leading industries. The core courses further leadership and critical thinking skills and allow students to choose an industry-relevant concentration on which to focus their studies. To better serve non-traditional (adult) students, classes are held in a flexible format and all classes can be completed remotely. Certificate programs are also available.

Customize your degree in General Studies by choosing from over 80 minors while developing the skills you need to be successful in the 21st century. Your major will be composed of two areas of your choice and an increasing number of minors are available completely online, making this a desirable degree for both traditional and non-traditional (adult) students.

Making Class Engaging in Blackboard Collaborate Ultra © 1:00pm - 1:50pm, Feb 18

Faculty

As instructors, we are currently adapting to current events and their impact on our classrooms. Instructors constantly look for ways to reach our students. Reaching our students during the time of COVID has its own challenges. Blackboard Collaborate Ultra is a real-time video conferencing tool that can assist instructors in meeting students virtually to provide high-quality instruction. This tool is largely intuitive and affords students, who may not have anticipated taking courses in an online setting, the ability to communicate and interact with their peers and the instructor. Join to learn more about tools within Blackboard Collaborate Ultra that enhance students' online learning experiences. Topics covered will include an overview of BBCU, polling, breakout sessions, sharing files, sharing applications, and document cameras. There will be participant breakout sessions. During these sessions, participants will be encouraged to share their ideas or strategies for enhancing instruction in Blackboard Collaborate Ultra.

Social Presence and Rapport in Physical and Virtual Educational Spaces @ 8:30am - 9:20am, Feb 19

Faculty Staff

No matter how education evolves, one simple fact remains the same: We are all human beings, embarking together on an educational journey that might sometimes feel disconnected, uncomfortable, even scary. As students navigate our admissions processes, enroll in our classes, utilize our technology tools, and attempt to communicate with us, they may feel daunted. We ourselves may sometimes feel overwhelmed by the expectations our roles place on us. Happily, none of us is alone. We all have the capacity to connect with one another as we work toward the common goal of a better future through the vehicle of higher education. This session will provide simple practices and strategies for establishing social presence, building rapport, and maintaining robust learning communities in any teaching and learning environment.
